Ir is beginning to be believed that no Ku-Kiux bill can pass the present Congress, authorizing the President to use the army, except on the call of the Governor of a State. The accession of a strong Democratic vote to the Forty-second Congress, coupled with the opposition of many moderate and usurpation-hating Republicans, will likely be sufficient to scotch the mischief. But Grant & Co, have attempted it, and will fare no better with the people than if sucsome life in the good old Constitution dential chances are played out.
